

26 November 1997

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A device that comprises a module for attachment to a microscope—, by means of which this microscope can be used for fluorescence correlation spectroscopy. The module contains a pinhole array which is set in a common support body. In addition, the device also contains a fiber optic guide.